1	Full			BHIVA welcomes this guidance.
2	Full			Young people with HIV have particular needs and additional concerns regarding information sharing. Safeguards must be available to ensure confidentiality of their diagnosis and some aspects of this guidance means wider information sharing, which may not be in that young person's best interests. Consideration should be given to not disclosing the young person's long-term condition outside the healthcare team if it is not relevant, but pooled budgets may negatively impact this. They will still require a robust transition service and this should be at an appropriate pace, with some requiring a transition clinic into their early 20s.
3	Full			An area of concern is where admission is required, with those over 16 being placed on adult wards. NICE should consider the role of adolescent units.
